Constructing Joy

That's how we see it

Constructing Joy is both our work method and our stamp of quality. From the drawing board to the finished product, we develop products for joy.

Whatever the assignment, we have the experience required to create an exciting and affordable solution. A well conceived architectural design and construction drawings are, as with all types of construction work, crucial for successful development.

High quality in both product and production is fundamental to us. Since the early 1990s, Hydro Sport has participated in the development of European standards for waterslides, EN 1069.

The manufacturing of our fiberglass structures takes place in our own factory in Ockelbo, Sweden. Having control over the entire process provides an efficient, streamlined production.

In every production we use premium materials. The waterslides are made of fiberglass reinforced polyester, and designed to withstand all weather conditions. They are supported by hot-dip galvanized or stainless steel.

Test installation is always carried out in the factory before we disassemble the waterslide for delivery and installation. On-site installations are performed in a rational and controlled manner under the leadership of our competent staff.

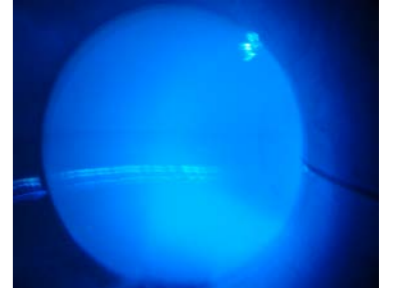

A waterslide from Hydro Sport has an impressive lifespan. Nevertheless, if a problem does occur, we offer a range of services and maintenance assistance.

HydroSport has delivered 44,000 meters of joy around the world.

To be on the safe side, we build all of our waterslides twice

That might sound pointless. But if you ask us, it's essential.

Hydro Sport has exceptionally high standards. Since the beginning of the 1980s, we have delivered premium products that endure and bring joy to many. We have been testing and evaluating every slope, curve and drop in the 44,000 meters of waterslides that we have designed and produced. We know that details are important to the overall experience, both in design, production and installation.
